The International Holocaust Remembrance Alliance (IHRA) is an international body that seeks to remember the Holocaust and tackle antisemitism by bringing governments together, supporting Holocaust education, research and commemoration¹. IHRA was founded by former Swedish Prime Minister Göran Persson, and now has 34 countries as members (and a further eight observer/liaison members) who seek to uphold the 2000 Stockholm Declaration. The Declaration includes commitments to: remember the Holocaust as an event from which universal lessons can be derived; tackle Holocaust denial; address all types of racism and genocide; encourage studying all dimensions of the Holocaust and making all related documentation available for research, and committing to observe an annual Holocaust Memorial Day².

In pursuit of some of these aims, IHRA adopted a o ojking debailion of anlikemilikm Ihal includek 11 examples as illustrations. IHRA refers to it as 5..t211Tm()9 (s

"Antisemitism is a certain perception of Jews, which may be expressed as hatred toward Jews. Rhetorical and physical manifestations of antisemitism are directed toward Jewish or non-Jewish individuals and/or their property, toward Jewish community institutions and religious facilities."

To guide IHRA in its work, the following examples may serve as illustrations:

Manifestations might include the targeting of the state of Israel, conceived as a Jewish collectivity. However, criticism of Israel similar to that levelled against any other country cannot be regarded as antisemitic. Antisemitism frequently charges Jews with conspiring to harm humanity, and it is often used to blame Jews foj ô hq Ihingk go o jong.ÓII ik eppjekked in kpeech, writing, visual forms and action, and employs sinister stereotypes and negative character traits.

Contemporary examples of antisemitism in public life, the media, schools, the workplace, and in the religious sphere could, taking into account the overall context, include, but are not limited to:

- Calling for, aiding, or justifying the killing or harming of Jews in the name of a radical ideology or an extremist view of religion.
- Making mendaciomk, dehrmaniring, demoniring, oj stereotypical allegations about Jews as such or the power of Jews as collective — such as, especially but not exclusively, the myth about a world Jewish conspiracy or of Jews controlling the media, economy, government or other societal institutions.
- Accusing Jews as a people of being responsible for real or imagined wrongdoing committed by a single Jewish person or group, or even for acts committed by non-Jews.

- Denying the fact, scope, mechanisms (e.g. gas chambers) or intentionality of the genocide of the Jewish people at the hands of National Socialist Germany and its supporters and accomplices during World War II (the Holocaust).
- Accusing the Jews as a people, or Israel as a state,
